

Pyramid Song

Sadistik & Kristoff Krane

[Kristoff Krane]

I was dragged into this world by some hands I never met

Told to be a man learning how to stand and intercept

To walk into a plot I never planned and can't defend

And expected to survive in a land that's cancerous

Told to play my part and act and pass the test

In a world I was told was mine but never had the chance to get

[Sadistik]

Tonight I'm gonna beat my heart until the fucking beating stops

In a way to vindicate the parasites I'm feeding on

Dream on, demons find me in my sleep to burn the brink that I can teeter on

I listen to the wickedness that's willing in the wind

Just to give a little rhythm to the dissonance within

When I leave dark teethmarks pointing to my god I don't consider him a friend

This year for once I'm gonna give up my religion

Find the pentagram and constellations they can visit with

These stars depart, although the stars is not a part of my intentions is it?

[Kristoff Krane]

From a ripple to a swelling tide that finally broke its crest

The shore is slowly moving towards the compass in my chest

One sun, watch it run laps around my head
Till I love myself enough, I'm dead
You're yelling at me through a 3D hologram
Touch screen power button, suck me dry, plug me in Mother suffers when we huddle with our bloody hands
All because we've learned to stand like puppets and we understand

One day I'ma be an old man
I know how to hold hands, romance, slow dance
No program shall control this moment I'm so (yeah) focussed

Hold it, all in together now
So sick we can taste what the cure is
Go get all the memories in heaven
How can we escape our sinning
When they drag our spirit chain to the pyramids
